X2 Group of Professional Logistics Networks Launches X2 Critical

Bangkok, Thailand (May, 28 2015)—The X2 Group of Professional Logistics Networks today announced its expansion to include X2 Critical. X2 Critical is a network aiming to be an alliance of the world's finest independent time sensitive freight forwarders.

Due to the focus on the specialty of international time sensitive logistics, all member companies of X2 Critical will cover customized logistics solutions in the following industry sectors: aerospace, AOG, ship spares, automotive, energy, media, time critical, pharma logistics, hand carry, fashion logistics, events, airline charters and aviation.

The newest X2 network applies firm membership requirements and qualifications to ensure the quality and credibility of each member. The launch of X2 Critical is part of the X2 Networks' efforts to scale up its global business operations by assisting freight forwarders in providing greater efficiencies and optimized time critical solutions in the emerging markets worldwide.

"The concept of networking is to develop a relationship from a group of like-minded people, so the way to foster long-term relationships fundamentally comes from the members themselves. We cannot force them but we can create programs and we already have platforms in place to assist them in growing relationships," said Richard Overton, CEO of The X2 Group of Professional Logistics Networks.

"Every company, every industry and every market has a threat. New networks are turning up. So we have to make X2 unique, we have to make X2 responsive and we have to maintain innovation. There's got to be innovation in what we do," says Richard Overton. With P. Dorai of AGX, a sole agent of AirAsia AOG, acting as the Ambassador of development, X2 Critical will further expose logistics providers with significant growth opportunities whilst maximizing each member's marginal capabilities.

Overton added further, "There are more networks in the market place, so what we have to do is find more of a unique selling point that potential members or companies who want to join the network feel that X2 is right for them. X2 Critical is designed to benefit the niche services offered by time critical specialists."

As one of the first and the fastest growing networks in the industry, The X2 Group of Professional Logistics Networks continue to offer competent and cost-effective collaboration while guarantying level protection among its members.
